Dr. Bernard Arogyaswamy

Formation Abroad blends experience, coursework and service to create an immersive experience that is not just educational, but transformative. Students will complete a course in International Business taught by Dr. Bernard Arogyaswamy, professor of management and author of Entitlement Nation, in which they will explore the distinct identities of nations as defined by their economic, political, social and civic environments. Students will leave the classroom to explore the world's second-most-populous nation, India, for themselves. They will gain invaluable experience as interns at iNautix, a subsidiary of Bank of New York in Chennai and will serve the local community through their volunteer work at an orphanage. All of these will combine to strengthen their understanding of the impact national identities have on the way organizations are managed and how they impact processes related to innovation and sustainability.

► Jan. 4–13, 2017

The goals of BUS 400 International Business:

- Understand the processes, drivers and benefits of globalization, as well as the rising opposition to global linkages.
- Recognize the differences among political, economic and legal systems, as well as cultures, in various countries.
- Explain differences in management styles (i.e., decision-making, structure, rewards and empowerment strategies) based on differences in environment.
- Gain an appreciation for how the process of innovation and of developing sustainable solutions (including social entrepreneurship and corporate social responsibility) are linked to national characteristics and identity.

Space in the program is limited.
